

Digital Health CEO

We are an emerging Los Angeles-based digital health company focused on developing solutions to improve hospital workflow.

We are seeking a CEO with experience in healthcare IT systems, including previous work with data standards and interfaces for systems integration. An understanding and experience in clinical reporting, especially in oncology, is desirable as well as understanding of clinical trial design and recruitment.

The individual should have knowledge of data modeling and data aggregation concepts in support of machine/deep learning and data analytics. Familiarity with a start-up culture is required.
